THOUGHTS.

To be jealous of any new-comer or new-doer who like a John Wesley traveling preacher walks through or around our city and points out new quarries of marble or coal or new springs of healthful water is nothing if not short-sighted.

Pope says something like this:

Let be: our judgment as our watches, none
Go just alike, yet each believes his own.

Each individual has in veins and spots a knack or genius of his own—let him work at it incessantly until he works it out to some practical end.

Whatever you do, keep off a dead level.—John Wanamaker.

Hope and keep busy.

Don't get out of your flannels yet awhile. March is only fooling you.

THE man behind the pencil in this column is now behind the hoe in his garden with his wife behind him. So, with the sunshine beaming down at about 100, you can imagine what kind of a box he is in.

"NONE knew her but to love her" can be truly said of good old "grandma" McGlothlan, who died last Sunday at the ripe old age of eighty-four. You always got a good word and a hearty welcome at her home. God bless her, heaven is her home now.

Mr. John Y. B. Lott, of Lewisport, Hancock county, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Senator in this district. Mr. Lott comes with a strong indorsement from the Republican committee of his county and must be a pretty nice young man judging from what his fellow county men say of him. We don't know the young man. Never met him until the other day when he called on us and gave us the announcement which appears in another column. We were favorably impressed with his appearance, however, and bespeak for him the kind consideration of Republicans in Breckenridge and Meade. It is said of Mr. Lott that he is a good speaker, thoroughly versed in Republican ideas and policies and that he will make a strong candidate and make it mighty lively for the Democratic nominee.

PATESVILLE.

Dr. J. W. Milner was in Patesville and Hawesville Saturday.

Elias Bradshaw, of Tell City, Ind., is visiting friends and relatives here.

Dr. W. L. Lawless and family returned to their home in Horse Branch Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell Frymire and son, Randolph, returned to Tell City Sunday.

S. J. Baker and sons, Marvin and Tarvin, were in Hawesville Saturday on business.

Mat Jarboe was in Cloverport Monday last week after a load of undertaker's goods.

Mrs. W. C. R. id, of Tell City, Ind., spent a few days with her daughter, Mrs. A. V. Day.

Laurence Lawless, who has been visiting friends and relatives, returned to Tell City Monday.

Miss Sue Stephens, of Hawesville, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. M. Powers, Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marlow returned Sunday from Louisville, where they had been spending a few days.

Isaac Simonton, of Florence, Ind., arrived at this place Tuesday evening of last week; and being delayed on his way he was too late for the funeral of his step-mother, Mrs. Mary Simonton.

Among those who attended the funerals of James Lawless and Mrs. Mary Simonton, were: Mrs. W. H. Kyler and son, Floyd; Mrs. S. Rosenblatt and daughter, Rachel; Mrs. Chas. and Will Kyler and Mrs. Bell and Ella Fritz, of Hawesville.

The Force of Strong Personality.

Who has not felt his power multiplied many times, his intellect sharpened and a keener edge put on all of his faculties when coming into contact with a strong personality which has seemed to unlock hidden powers which he never before dreamed he possessed so that he could say things and do things impossible to him when alone? The power of the orator, which he flings back to his listeners, he first draws from his audience, but he could never get it from the separate individuals any more than the chemist could get the full power from chemicals standing in separate bottles in his laboratory. It is in contact and combinations only that new creations, new forms, are developed.—O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.

Ireland's Sacred Oak.

In years gone by Ireland had a sacred oak dedicated to St. Columban, one of the peculiarities of the tree being that whoever carried a small bit of the wood or bark in his mouth would never meet with a violent death, it being especially efficacious in saving Christian martyrs from the block. It was known throughout the British Isles as the holy oak of Kenmare. After the lapse of many centuries this sacred oak was uprooted by a storm, after which it was said to be guarded by angels to keep heretics from gathering the wood for fuel. At last a wicked tanner "barked" one of its largest limbs and tanned some leather, which he made into shoes for himself, imagining that such relics would bring him wealth and power. He wore them but once, however, but that one time was enough to make him an incurable leper.

The Day's Work.

Much of the success of life depends on proper preparation for the day's work. Most people work either in the home or office, and they desire to get the most out of themselves. To rise late, rush through the toilet and gulp down a hasty breakfast is no preparation for a good day's work, yet it is safe to say that the majority of women begin the day in this way. It is just as easy to rise in plenty of time, if one will only do it. The tendency on waking is to stretch and yawn. A few minutes spent in this deep breathing is always restful. This should be followed by a few breaths of fresh air, drinking a couple glasses of water, exercises that suit the case, the bath and toilet. This forms a mental attitude consistent with a good day's work. A simple breakfast—some take none—should follow before an unhurried journey either to office or the routine of housework. Stand erect, breathe erect, think erect, and half the battle of life is won.—Housekeeper.

The Dane's Bill of Fare.

Lieutenant Robert E. Peary at a dinner of the Arctic society once spoke on the privations suffered by his party in his previous expedition. In the course of his remarks he mentioned the fact that the sole article of diet for thirty days of one of the members of his party, a Dane, was dried bones. Afterward Lieutenant Peary was approached by a friend who expressed incredulity. "That must have been a great Dane of yours," said he sneeringly. "Yes," replied the lieutenant; "he was a splendid dog."

By the most delicate rendering of the quantity of light reflected from each and every part of the room and the figures and objects in it he has given to the latter the reality of form and to the room its hollowness and distance.—St. Nicholas.

New Caledonia.

Until 1833 New Caledonia was a sort of no man's land. Then both England and France decided to annex it, and orders came to two warships to proceed thither at once. They started the same day. The English captain had heard of the reefs that surround the island, and he was cautious. The Frenchman went ahead without regard for the reefs. When the British captain arrived he saw the tricolor flying from a hill, and he was invited to come in and lunch on French soil.

The Mexican Letter Writer.

As many of the lower classes in the City of Mexico can neither read nor write, the Mexican letter writer does a thriving business. He writes letters of all kinds—love letters, begging letters—it matters little to him, so that he is paid for his work. These men are found in the Plaza of Santo Domingo, a sort of market place, where second-hand articles are for sale.

His Discovery.

City Chap chaffed from a visit to the farm—You know I thought I had a cinch when the hired man told me to milk the cow that didn't have an horns. Friend—Wasn't it? City Chap—No! It isn't the horns that create a disturbance when a greenhorn is milked. It's the hind leg!—Detroit Free Press.

Waiting Upon His Bride.

Two hundred years ago it was a custom very general in England for the bridegroom to wait upon his bride on their wedding day. The following extract from John Shebbeare's "Matrimony," a book published in the middle of the eighteenth century, testifies to this and refers to the popular superstition about it: "The dinner being served, Sir Oliver was the gayest man in the company. The bridegroom and bride sitting by the side of each other, the old gentleman observed: 'Ods-heart, ods-heart! What, dine with the bride the first day! A fine bridegroom; a fine bridegroom! It was the fashion when I was married to stand behind the bride's chair with a napkin and serve her. Serve her today; she'll serve you always after!'"

The Perspective of Light.

Velasquez recognized that light is elastic and illuminates the air; hence he was the first to discover a new kind of perspective. Men long ago had learned to make lines vanish from the eye, to make the figures diminish in size and shape as they recede from the front and to explain the distance by contrasts of light and shade. But he discovered the perspective of light.

The Path of Progress.

[Luther Burbank of San Francisco, Cal., has perfected a fadless flower.]
The horseless carriage whizzes by.
With puff and dash and slam;
Through every breath of ours may fly
A wireless telegram;
The seedless raisin on the plate
We joyfully devour.
Things are perfected while we wait—
Here comes the fadless flower!

The coreless apple is announced;
The whipless school is here—
No scholar any more is trounced
By teacher kind and dear;
The seedless onion now is grown.
Improvement every hour
Into the scheme of things is thrown—
Behold the fadless flower!

The jokeless comedy we see;
The tailless horse we drive;
The honey served to you and me
Comes from a beelless hive;
Buckwheatless buckwheat cakes we eat
And gather strengthless power.
Some new thing every day we greet—
Observe the fadless flower!

Oh, would they freeze some meltless ice,
Or make some footless gas,
Or furnish coal without a price—
Fate is unkind, alas!
Henceforth the maiden fair to see
Will grow reserved and sour
And say, "Bring withered blooms to me—
No cheap old fadless flower!"
—W. D. Nesbit in Chicago Tribune.

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Hyomei Cures this Common and Disagreeable Disease.

Hyomei cures catarrh by the simple method of breathing it into the air passages and lungs. It kills the germs of the catarrhal poison and soothes the irritated mucous membrane, enters the blood with the oxygen and kills the germs present there, effectually driving this disease from the system.

If you have any of the following symptoms, catarrhal germs are at work somewhere in the mucous membrane of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or tissues of the lungs.

offensive breath	discharge from the nose
dryness of the nose	stoppage of the nose
pain across the eyes	at night
pain in back of the head	aching of the body
pain in front of the head	droppings in the throat
tendency to take cold	mouth open while sleeping
burning pain in the throat	itching back of the palate
hawking to clear the throat	formation of crust in the nose
pain in the chest	dryness of the throat
a cough	stitch in side
losing of flesh	loss of strength
variable appetite	spasms of coughing
low spirited at times	cough short and hacking
raising of frothy mucus	cough worse nights and mornings
expectorating yellow matter	loss in vital force
difficulty in breathing	a feeling of tightness across the upper part of the chest
frequent sneezing
hoarseness of voice

Hyomei will cure the disease, destroy activity of all germ life in the respiratory organs, enrich and purify the blood with additional ozone, and after a few days use of this treatment the majority of these symptoms will have disappeared. In a few weeks the cure will be complete.

Catarrh or catarrhal colds cannot exist when Hyomei is used. This is a strong statement, but Short & Haynes emphasize it by agreeing to refund your money if Hyomei does not cure.
